Pretty well everything for in and around the home

NORMAN HUNTER

It was nice to beat Rotherham last Saturday. It was not one of the better games I have seen between the two teams by any stretch of imagination, but at least the result was right from our point of view.

Derrick Parker's winning goal just four minutes from time made it possible for our supporters to go to work in a happy frame of mind on Monday morning, and the results of the top three teams suggest that the season is not yet over, despite what some people might think.

Leaders Wolves crashed 5-0 at Leicester; Fulham were, by all accounts, lucky to get a point from their home game with Newcastle, and the Q.P.R. were also held to a draw.

I have said all along that these three teams had not yet experienced a sticky spell. Perhaps this is the start.

Remember, we beat Wolves recently; they only just managed to beat Carlisle at home the following week, and now they have really been hammered by a good Leicester side, so they'll be having doubts about promotion, perhaps for the first time this season.

So, if we keep on winning our home games, and start picking up one or two more points away, we'll keep the pressure on them, along with other teams such as Leicester, Leeds and Sheffield Wednesday, who are all capable of closing the gap should the top teams continue to stumble.

Going back to that Rotherham game it was at least good to see our players really battling away and working hard to force a win.

I was far from pleased with their attitude against Q.P.R. the previous week, but the derby game brought out the old fighting spirit and that is the sort of approach we must have to every game.

This afternoon we welcome John McGovern's Bolton in a game which provides us with the opportunity of completing our second double of the season.

But we must not be complacent about it. Although they have won only once away from home, they have drawn seven, so obviously they are a difficult side to beat.

BOLTON WANDERERS

One of the founder members of the Football League, Bolton Wanderers won the first F.A. Cup Final to be played at Wembley stadium in 1923, when an estimated 200,000 packed the stadium to overflowing.

Wanderers dominated the competition in the 20s, going on to lift the Cup in 1926 and 1929, but they then had to wait until 1958 for their next major honour when the legendary Nat Lofthouse led them to F.A. Cup glory with a Wembley victory over the Munich-ravaged Manchester United side.

They won the Second Division Championship in 1908-09 and 1977-78, and the Third Division title in 1972-73.

After being relegated to the Second Division several times in their early days, they enjoyed an unbroken First Division spell from 1911-33.

From 1935 to 1964 the Wanderers remained in the First Division, but in 1970-71 they dropped into the Third Division for the first time in their history.

Two years later they were promoted as champions, and they won promotion to the First Division at the end of the 1977-78 season, emerging as champions, after twice finishing in third place in Division Two.

They were relegated back to the Second Division in 1980 and now, under new player-manager John McGovern, one of the most respected figures in the game, they are looking to re-establish themselves, although at the moment they are involved in their third successive relegation fight.

McGovern himself has been forced to concentrate more on the managerial side recently, however, due to a nagging muscle injury. As a player he won League Championship honours with both Derby County and Nottingham Forest, and he also led Forest, as captain, to two European Cup and two Football League Cup successes.

In Jim McDonagh Bolton have a goalkeeper who is in his second spell with the club. He rejoined the Wanderers during the summer of 1981 from Everton, after a season at Goodison Park. The former Rotherham 'keeper was a member of Bolton's Second Division Championship-winning side in 1978. He is a Republic of Ireland international with well over 350 League appearances behind him.

Full-back Steve Whitworth is another very experienced defender, with well over 450 League appearances to his credit. A stylish player, he joined Bolton for a bargain £25,000 from Sunderland in 1981. He started his career with Leicester City, for whom he played 353 games in the Football League. It was during his days at Filbert Street that he earned seven England caps.

A member of the successful England Youth Squad which won the 1980 European Youth Championships in East Germany, Mick Bennett is quickly establishing himself as one of the most promising defenders in the game. Bolton-born, he joined Wanderers as a schoolboy and has played at full-back and midfield.

Veteran former Manchester City and England defender Mike Doyle has recently returned to action after injury. He joined Wanderers in January last year for a 'nominal fee' from Stoke City, making a dramatic start to his Bolton days by conceding an own goal on his debut and being sent off in his second game! However, he has since brought a steady influence to the Bolton line-up and his composure has been a great asset to the team.

Paul Jones re-signed for Wanderers within weeks of being released on a free transfer during the summer. A quick-tackling defender, he has been a member of the Under-23 and full England squads. He is a commanding player in the air as well as on the ground and has a habit of scoring vital goals. Wanderers' longest-serving player, he can also play at full-back. Bolton is his only club and he has now made nearly 450 League appearances for them.

A left-back who can also play in midfield, Ray Deakin joined Wanderers last summer on a free transfer from Port Vale. He began his career with Everton.

Tony Henry was one of the unsung heroes of Manchester City's revival last season. He went on as substitute in City's F.A. Cup Final appearance in 1981. A versatile player, who like Deakin, can play at full-back or in midfield, he cost £125,000 when Bolton signed him from City, and he is proving to be a very valuable addition to the playing strength. Born in Newcastle, he made 79 League appearances for the Maine Road Club. He is the team's current top scorer with ten goals.

David Hoggan joined Bolton from Tynecastle Boys Club, Edinburgh, as an apprentice in November, 1977, an signed full-time professional forms in August, 1979. He made his League debut in the First Division match at Bristol City in April, 1980. A midfield player, he won international recognition with the Scottish Under-21 squad.

A speedy attacker, with plenty of skill, Chris Thompson joined Wanderers straight from school. He became an apprentice and then went on to sign full professional forms in July, 1977. He has represented England at Youth level and was the club's leading marksman last season. He has not been on the target as often as he would like this term, his tally so far being four.

TONY HENRY

Jeff Chandler is a livewire winger with an abundance of skill and control. He cost Wanderers a modest £40,000 when he signed from Leeds United in October, 1981. Hammer-smith-born, he began his League career with Blackpool, and has won international recognition with the Republic of Ireland. He has now made more than 100 League appearances in total.

A former local schoolboy, striker Wayne Foster came on to the scene last season and commanded a regular place in the attack. Leigh-born, he has had recognition at international level, being awarded his first England Youth Cap for a European Championship qualifying match in Scotland.

Ian Moores, of course, is now no stranger to Oakwell fans, having played for the Reds three times during a loan period which ended last week. He joined Wanderers last summer after four seasons with Orient. He first made a name for himself with Stoke City, who he joined as a teenager, and then enjoyed two successful years with Spurs.

International Youth honours with Scotland launched defender Neil Berry into what promises to be a first-class career. His League debut came at Cambridge last March, when he played in midfield.

Goalkeeper Simon Farnworth has shown enough talent and composure in his formative years to persuade Wanderers to appoint him as understudy to McDonagh and release the vastly-experienced Dennis Peacock.

John McGovern

"I won't stand for anyone cheating.....the product just hasn't been good enough.....the players adopted bad habits because of the general malaise at the club over the last two years."

It might have been Brian Clough talking. But it is no surprise to learn that it was, in fact, John McGovern, not long after his appointment as new manager of Bolton Wanderers at the start of the season.

For McGovern spent 15 years under Cloughie at Hartlepool, Derby County, Leeds United and Nottingham Forest.

The managerial post at Burnden Park was a big challenge for him. Not only was it his first in such a role, but he knew there would be no money to spend on strengthening his side.

He showed his acceptance of the latter fact when he signed Ian Moores, who has just completed a spell on loan to Barnsley, from Orient.

Said McGovern: "I did my homework on him; checked with several people, and decided that he was the best available at the price."

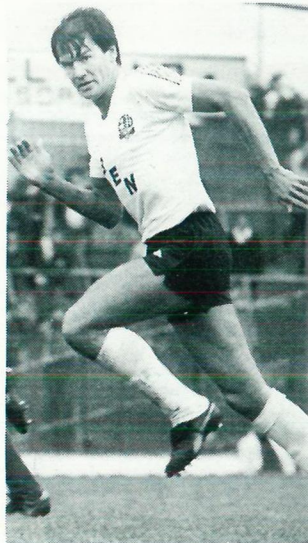

The price was a free transfer.

But McGovern is still ambitious and optimistic enough to believe that he can get Bolton back into the First Division.

"I'd just love to achieve that", he says, but then reflects: "It might take a little time. You've got to remember that last season was so nearly a Third Division club."

Although a novice in managerial matters, he has a vast amount of playing experience to call on, having won League Championship honours with Derby County and Nottingham Forest - also leading the latter to two European Cup and two Football League Cup successes as captain:

Paul Jones

Bolton skipper Paul Jones was linked with Second Division Crystal Palace after being one of ten players released at the end of last season - but managerial change has also brought a change in his personal fortunes.

Not only did he re-sign for Wanderers only weeks after being given a free transfer, he was appointed captain by new player-manager John McGovern.

Says Paul: "The boss thought he had enough responsibility being player-manager, so he asked me whether I fancied the job as captain."

"And I must say I have enjoyed the responsibility. Organising others on and off the field has given me something else to think about. It's strange having the manager on the pitch playing alongside you, but I'm getting used to it. On the field I treat him just as another player, and that's how he wants it.

"John McGovern is a manager who knows what he wants. He isn't a boisterous loudmouth who rants and raves. He makes his points in a quiet way. But if he has to be ruthless, he will be."

Paul has been 14 years at Burnden Park and is the club's longest-serving player, with nearly 450 League appearances behind him.

Born in Ellesmere Port, he has developed as a quick-tackling defender who is commanding in the air as well as on the ground, and has a habit of scoring vital goals.

A member in the past of Under 23 and full England squads, he usually plays in the middle of the defence, but can also operate at full-back.

The season so far has been disappointing for him, with Bolton engaged in another relegation battle, but Paul is optimistic about the future.

"The atmosphere within the club is a lot better than it used to be. John McGovern has his sights set on the top and already I believe he has given us something to build on.

"However, there is a lot of hard work still to be put in if Bolton is to become a successful club again, and I think we all realise that."

(Radio Hallam)

How do you promote a game that is being knocked from pillar to post.....a game that is losing its appeal to the public.....a game that attracts louts.....a game that is in a financial mess?

Advertise it? The game cannot afford to advertise it. Yet, in reality, it gets the best advertising service of any sport in the country and it is completely free of charge.

And who gets the blame for the mess? The media. Always blame the media.

I often wonder what kind of mess the game would be in without us. A bigger one, I reckon, and the likelihood of a ban on television screenings represents misguided thinking.

I said earlier that football gets a free advertising service. That is not quite true. It actually gets paid for it. Perhaps the game should be paying the television companies and not the other way around. Maybe that will happen when football comes crawling back to the television chiefs after another two years of falling gates.

The answers from Messrs. Bromley and Morgan could be quite interesting: "Sorry, we are getting more viewers from American football, basketball, snooker and darts than we ever did from soccer. It's a loser."

And it is. Extreme thoughts, but surely football cannot win by banning the cameras. Television can.

can understand reducing the number of games covered — maybe by one week — but surely total blackout cuts the nose to spite the face.

Again I ask: Where can you get an advertising deal like it? Imagine television paying, Kelloggs for the privilege of paying people to portray their sunshine product.

Neither is the game aiding itself at another media level. Newspapers get accused of sensationalism, of pure speculation, of degrading the game. What you have to ask is.....who degrades the game? The writers and broadcasters or the managers and players who make the statements which are reported?

Another thing. Managers say that it is a game of opinions, but you get the impression that theirs are the only opinions that count. Who are they playing the game for anyway? The fans. And who communicates with the fans? Not the managers with loud hailers.

The old saying about all publicity being good publicity surely applies. Football does not need no publicity.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY

BARNSELY 2, ROTHERHAM 1

•The game failed to live up to expectations in a goalless first half but erupted into life shortly after the break. It appeared to be ending in stalemate, however, until Birch crossed, Hughes failed to clear and Parker stole in.

(Yorkshire Post)

•Hard work, effort, commitment, all characterised this South Yorkshire shindig. Sadly, it made for a derby party minus the punch. The teams' three previous Second Division meetings had served up champagne stuff, bubbles and all. On Saturday, it was all rather flat.

Andrew Elliot
(Sheffield Morning Telegraph)

•The sides cancelled each other out rather than one being made to play the subservient role. It was hard. What derbies aren't? But it wasn't dirty. Maybe those early three booking quietened things down and set up the exciting finish after a first half best forgotten.

SCENE

by KEITH LODGE

It is pleasing to be able to report that two members of the successful Oakwell youth team have been selected to attend an F.A. Youth Coaching and Development Session at Lilleshall.

They are striker Carl Airey and central defender Simon Jeffels, who will join 42 other young hopefuls at the F.A. Coaching Centre on Monday for a couple of days under the expert eye of England Youth manager Graham Taylor and coaches David Burnside, Alan Hodgkinson and Colin Murphy.

Says Reds' boss Norman Hunter: "This is a reflection on the excellent work being done amongst our younger players. Carl has already had first team experience and Simon has played a number of games in the Reserves this season.

"We look to our youth team to produce players for the future, and in the last couple of seasons we have benefited by seeing such players as Carl, Joe Joyce, Paul Longden, Winston Campbell and Dave Wilkes come through into the first team.

"The team as a whole is enjoying a very successful season. They are still challenging for the Northern Intermediate League title; are still in the F.A. Youth Cup and they are in the final of the Northern Intermediate League Challenge Cup.

"It all reflects great credit on the youth coaching staff under Bobby Collins."

Not such good news, of course, concerning the first team central defensive king-pin, Mick McCarthy, who faces his second suspension of the season as a result of accumulating 21 disciplinary points.

He automatically serves a two-match ban, the fixtures he misses being away to Shrewsbury and at home to Middlesbrough.

To make matters worse, defensive colleague Nicky Law reached 19 points following his booking against Rotherham last Saturday, so he needs to be very careful....otherwise Norman Hunter could have to consider another come-back!

Winger Stewart Barrowclough's appearance on the transfer list last week came about by "mutual agreement."

Says Hunter: "Stewart is keen to join another club where he can enjoy first team football on a more regular basis, and we understand his feelings.

"However, there is no way we could allow him to go on a free transfer, so, if he goes, a fee will be required."

Colin Walker, of course, is also on the list, and is currently on a month's loan with Doncaster Rovers, while Barnsley's on-loan striker, Ian Moores, has returned to Bolton after three appearances with the Reds.

Richard Finney asks me to remind local schools, clubs and sporting organisations that they can now book the use of the all-weather artificial training area on the Queen's Ground.

Richard can be contacted between 10 am and 4 pm on Mondays to Fridays on Barnsley 292795.

PROFILE

on Derrick Parker

Derrick Parker emerged as Barnsley's hero last Saturday by scoring a late winner for the second successive home game.

Yet afterwards he was extremely critical of his own performance!

He commented: "I was especially pleased to score in the end because I was far from pleased with the way I played. My control and passing left a lot to be desired and I was constantly letting the other players down.

"Still, I suppose it makes up for the games when I have played well, but have failed to score. Either way there has to be some disappointment, because ideally I should be playing well and scoring.

"At the same time, I have been more satisfied generally with my form since the turn of the year. For the first few months of the season I could not hold a regular first team place and my form was in and out.

"It hasn't helped, of course, by having a regular partner. I think I've played alongside five different players and there has been no time to develop an understanding.

"If you remember, it took a while for Trevor Aylott and I to get the partnership right. We struggled at first, and we needed to play together for a fair number of matches before we started to click."

Derrick believes that the chopping and changing which has been necessary this season because of injuries and suspensions has had a lot to do with the fact that the Reds haven't quite made the impact on the Second Division that was promised

Carlton Facing Bricks and Engineering Bricks

specifications and orders for the new "CARLTON" range of facing bricks may be placed with confidence:—

after the encouragement of a highly-successful first season back in the higher grade.

"We also had to reorganise because of the loss of big Trevor and Ray McHale and the injury to new signing Tony Cunningham was a big blow to us.

"He was just beginning to settle in when he broke his ankle, and we have missed him much more than a lot of people thought we would."

Derrick added: "It's been a very frustrating season in many respects. We've always been in with an outside chance of promotion, yet we've never really been involved at the top, and we went out of both the Milk Cup and the F.A. Cup in games that we should have won.

"We have given away too many daft points here at Oakwell, and, at the same time we've not picked up enough on our travels."

Despite the comparative disappointments of this season, however, Derrick is happy enough to be playing first team football again.

There was a time last season when he wondered whether his career had come to a premature end.

An ankle injury sustained against Sheffield Wednesday at Hillsborough in the November put him out of action just when the team was playing its best football, and the former Burnley and Southend striker had to sit out the remainder of a memorable campaign, missing all the thrills of a promotion challenge and the exciting exploits in the League Cup.

"The worst of it was", says Derrick, "I couldn't get to the cause of the problem. Three times I attempted to come back and each time the ankle swelled up again and became very painful. X-rays proved it wasn't broken, so we just didn't know what was causing it.

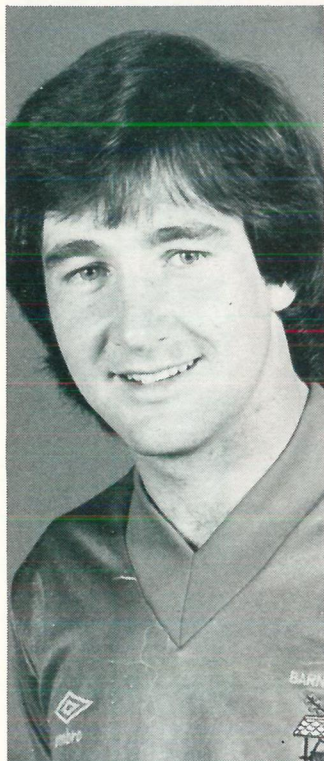

"The third time it happened I just gave the season up, rested the ankle completely and hoped it would be all right after the summer break.

"At the start of this season I didn't know whether it was going to hold up or not, and perhaps that's why it took some time for me to get my confidence back. Thankfully, I've had no further trouble, and I've forgotten about it now."

He certainly seems to have rediscovered his goal touch, having scored five goals in the last nine games.

Could he make it six this afternoon and reach double figures for the season?

We wouldn't bet against it!

Ah reckon 'at sooiner or later clubs in t' lower divisions is gooin' ter be foarced ter gooa part-time, an' dooan't think that 'ad be as bad a move as some fowk i' football think.

'Cos gap between t' Football League i'nt 'aif as big as it used ter be, an' ah dooan't think 'at the's enny gap at all when it comes ter t' bottom few teeams in t' Fourth Division.

An' an think part-timers could bring a smile or two back into t' game. 'Cos although the' tek the fooitball serious enough, the' dooan't allus tek thessens serious.

"Ah like ter watch non-league football when ah gets a chance, an it seems ter me 'at they all 'eve that ability ter laugh at thessens.

An' at managers an' coaches as well!
F'rinstance, ah wa' ear-wiggin' one day ahtside this 'ere teeam's dressin' room door an' t' manager sez: "Reight lads, we're changing us formation today. We gooin' ter laik 4-3-3."

The wa' a minnit's silence when the' cahnted up on the fingers an' then took the' socks off ageean ter cahnt on the' tooas!

Then one o' t' lads chirps up: "But, boss, that'll be twelve."

"Not if 'ee drops back a bit," sez t' manager, noddin' ter one o' wingers!

Then ah wa' watchin' 'em train one day an' t' manager sez: Gooa practice free-kicks."

"But the's on'y two on us!" came t' reply.

"That do'n't matter," retorted t' manager. "Yo' can tell rest o' t' lads on Setdy!"

Another time, or sooa one o' t' laikers telled me, manager's pre-match talk went summat like this: "Nah then, lads, we all know 'at this lot 'at wi' laikin' terday are a bad side, but let's not try to drag 'em dahn ter ah level!"

Seriously, though, fowks, wi' teeams struggling fo' brass in t' lower divisions, ah reckon 'at part-time football could be t' answer at mooast clubs, an' if the' can balance the' books wiaht a big drop i' standards, then it can on'y be good fo' t' game.

But talkin' abaht brass, ah came across this 'ere injured laiker cummin' aht o' t' dressin' room o' this 'ere non-league teeam, an' he jerks 'is 'eead in t' direction on t' dressing room.

"It's deead in theer," 'ee sez. Nooa atmosphere. It's like a mortgage."

IN FOCUS

GIVING YOUTH A BREAK!

If Wolverhampton Wanderers kick-off next season in the First Division they might reflect on the importance of the last-minute winner scored by Billy (The Kid) Livingstone when they played, on their own admission, some of their least effective football of the season and still beat Carlisle 2-1.

If Port Vale win promotion from the Fourth Division it is certain that Manager John McGrath will look back with gratitude on the contributions made by 18-year-old striker Robert Earle.

And when Luton do their sums at the end of the season they will recall that the receipts from the Fourth Round F.A. Cup Tie against Manchester United were made partially possible by the assured manner in which 17-year-old Mark Watts made his debut in the previous round against Peterborough and how well 18-year-old Mitchell Thomas played in the same Manchester United Cup-tie and in several subsequent First Division matches.

Yet Livingstone, Earle, Watts and Thomas, would not have enjoyed their moments of glory had not The Football League given enthusiastic backing to the Manpower Services Commission's Work Experience Scheme which provides unemployed youngsters with the opportunity of working at League clubs.

"Any youngsters who made the grade under this scheme must be regarded as a bonus", says Graham Kelly, Secretary of The Football League. "Because the main object of this scheme, which our clubs have backed so handsomely, is to get involved in the Local Community and show that football, like any other major industry, can make its contribution in these sad days of depression and recession.

The present Work Experience Scheme, so successful that it is due to be extended next September, allows each of the League's 92 clubs to take on out-of-work youngsters whom the government pay £25.00 per week. They must spend 50% of their time receiving training in activities other than football like office routine, groundsmanship etc.

But if the youngsters prove they they have what it takes to reach League playing standard, then it is good for the clubs and marvellous for the boys.

Livingstone, Earle, Watts and Thomas have already proved worthy of full-time contracts, and they will not be the last.

David Pleat, Manager of Luton, is very enthusiastic about the scheme. "Watts and Thomas and the other two lads we have at Kenilworth Road, Richard Cadette and Mike Shearer, have all known the heartbreak of the dole, so they really sweat their guts out. It could be their last chance of getting something out of life.

Ironically, Coventry-born Livingstone might also have gone to Luton, but Wolves beat them to the punch. Yet Livingstone readily concedes that had it not been for the Work Experience Scheme he would almost certainly still be counting himself among the unemployed. And Livingstone now enjoys a lifestyle he would have thought impossible a couple of years ago.

The success of the Work Experience Scheme has delighted Gordon Taylor, Secretary of the Professional Footballers' Association, who welcomes its expansion.

"It's a marvellous idea at a time when money has never been tighter", he says. "It offers clubs a golden opportunity to save money without cutting staffs."

DOWN MEMORY LANE

Last season's meeting apart, Barnsley and Bolton Wanderers last met in a league match back in season 1971-72.

The sides were then in the Third Division, and the Reds made a flying start to their Easter programme of matches with a goal from George Boardman after just seven minutes.

That goal eventually proved to be enough to give Barnsley the points, for although the home side pressed forward time and again, they were unable to add any further goals.

Former Liverpool and England forward Roger Hunt was in the Bolton line-up, but he did little to excite the crowd of just under 4,000.

It was Bolton's first visit to Oakwell in 37 years, and one that they probably forgot very easily, for it was a lacklustre display by the Lancashire side.

However, the 1-0 win failed to improve Barnsley's league fortunes, and, at the end of the season, they were relegated to Division Four.

Barnsley's team on that day was: Stewart, Murphy, Booth, Greenwood, Winstanley, Millar, Brown (Lea, 75 mins), Boardman, Mahoney, Seal, Sharp.

NEWS ON TWO

Burnley hero Derek Scott had nightmares about the glorious chances he squandered on his 25th birthday.

For the midfielder was seen by millions of television viewers missing two golden opportunities against mighty Liverpool in a Milk Cup tie at Anfield.

Liverpool won 3-0 to virtually ensure a place in the final against First Division rivals Manchester United, and Derek says: "It could have been so different if I had scored just once. I had nightmares about the misses. Every time I closed my eyes I would see the chances again."

"Not many people go to Anfield and get two chances to score, what made it even worse was the fact that it was my birthday and the match was televised."

But Derek got his chance to put the record straight in the return when he scored the winner in the shock 1-0 win at Turf Moor, although, of course, it did not alter the outcome to the two-legged tie.

"That was the highlight of my career. I felt as though I had made up for those misses at Liverpool."

"I did get more consolation from the fact that Kenny Dalglish also missed a sitter in the second leg. It just goes to show that it can happen to the best of them."

"It was the best performance from a Burnley team I've played in. We showed determination and skill and in many ways were unlucky not to add to our goal tally."

Burnley's priority, however, must be to avoid the drop into the Third Division, and Derek is confident that the team can do so under the new management of Barnsley-born Frank Casper.

"I'm sure our Milk Cup exploits will help us," he says. "It's very tight at the bottom of the second Division and we need only string two or three wins together to climb into a midtable position."

"It's a strange situation to be in, but we've won more games in the cup competitions this season than we have in the League."

"Now we're aiming to put that right."

They certainly made a good start last Saturday, they trounced fellow-strugglers Charlton 7-1 at Turf Moor.

The game was well balanced at the interval, with Burnley leading 2-1, but then Charlton had both Derek Hales and Mark Aizlewood sent off and the home team scored five times in the last 13 minutes, Steve Taylor and Billy Hamilton both completing hat-tricks.

Burnley, however, remain next to the bottom, with the same number of points as bottom team Derby County, who continued their revival with a 2-0 home win over Grimsby.

It was at the expense of Grimsby's promotion ambitions that Derby got rid of a record which had haunted them for almost two years.

Not since Easter, 1981, had Derby won two league games in succession, and for almost an hour it seemed unlikely that they would shake off this dubious distinction against a Grimsby side who had lost nine of their 13 away games, and had not picked up an away point since November.

However, two goals in the space of 90 seconds settled the outcome, Kevin Moore deflecting a shot into his own net and Bobby Davison adding the second.

Carlisle United looked to be heading for their sixth home defeat when they went in trailing 2-0 to Leeds United at half-time.

The struggling Cumbrians, with only one win in their previous nine games, looked to be down and out, but after the interval they were totally revitalised to set up a grandstand finish which produced goals from Paul Bannon and Alan Shoulder to cancel out those scored for Leeds by Terry Connor and Aidan Butterworth.

Middlesbrough and Cambridge, however, met with decisive defeats, 3-1 away to Bolton Wanderers and Sheffield Wednesday respectively, and both remain in serious trouble.

Cambridge, incidentally, are still without an away win, having lost 12 and drawn two on their travels.

It remains a much tighter fight at the bottom than at the top, and defeats for Rotherham United (at Barnsley) and Crystal Palace (at Oldham) have left them looking anxiously over their shoulders as well.

It's our backs which put us in front.

FANS FORUM

Ever since he was knee high to a grass hopper Jamie Wright, of Bank Street, Barnsley, has supported the Reds.

In fact, he is still only six months old and is consequently the youngest member of the newly-formed White Bear Supporters' Club, Worsbro' Common.

The only problem is that he can't get to many matches because his dad Kieron, has trouble getting his pram through the turnstiles!

However, in the not too distant future he hopes to be able to watch the Reds in Division One, and meanwhile hopes that Norman Hunter and the lads keep up the good work.

•Reds' fan Jamie Wright

The White Bear, incidentally are arranging transport to the match at Carlisle on the last day of the season (May 14) and hope to start their activities in earnest in the 1983-84 campaign.

Anyone interested in either going on the trip to Carlisle, joining the club next season — or both — should contact either Ralph Dyson (85846, home) or Kevin Wright (84300, White Bear).

Mr G. Blackman writes from 144, Henry Prince Estate, London, SW 18:

I have visited Oakwell twice, with my team Fulham, but on both occasions was unable to obtain a Supporters' Club badge.

The reason for wanting this is that I have now visited the 92 League Clubs and wish to compile a collection of S.C. badges from all of them.

I am also trying to obtain all Fulham's programmes home and away going back to the war, and I require the following from Barnsley: 1946-47 (Feb 22); 1947-48 (Sept 10); 1952-53 (May 2); 1955-56 (Dec 24).

I would be willing to pay for any of the above at the going rate.

*Mr Blackman can be contacted on 01-870-7856.

Programme collectors should note that the second Manchester City programme Fair and Exhibition is being held in the Social Club at Maine Road tomorrow (Sunday) from 11 am to 3 pm.

ROUN

The Oakwell Juniors lost valuable ground in their Northern Intermediate League title challenge last Saturday, when they were held to a 1-1 draw by Rotherham United on the Queen's Ground.

It was a particularly disappointing result for the Young Reds, as they had already beaten Rotherham 6-0 and 4-0 in league and cup competitions this season.

The Millers, before Saturday's match, were second from bottom of the league table, with only three points from their 17 matches.

Wayne Goodison gave Barnsley the lead, but the teams never played as well as they can. Even so, it looked very much as though they were going to pick another two priceless league points.

Then, in the last minute of the game, Rotherham struck back with an equaliser to earn a share of the spoils.

Barnsley's team for the game was: Ironside, Marshall, Peel, Wakefield, Jeffels, Goodison, Cross, Agnew, Airey, Wilkes, Semley.

Barnsley remain at the top of the league table with 35 points, one point ahead of second-placed Sheffield United, who were surprisingly beaten 2-1 by Bradford City. That was only the second defeat of the season for United, and it has left the route to the top wide open for Hartlepool.

They beat local rivals Newcastle United 2-0 and now have 31 points. They also have four games in hand on Barnsley and will take over at the top if they win all four.

Barnsley's next league match is next Saturday (March 12), when they travel to take on Leeds United.

Despite last week's disappointment, the side will need no motivating for their game this afternoon. As the first team kick-off here at Oakwell, the juniors will begin their F.A. Youth quarter-final tie against Everton at Goodison Park.

With a place in the last four at stake, the game should be a cracker, but Everton will provide a stern test for Barnsley, having beaten Tottenham 5-0 in the previous round.

D-UP

FOCUS ON THE RESERVE AND YOUTH TEAMS

Introducing.....Paul Cross

Paul Cross is still only 17 years old, but has already earned a reputation as a 'play-anywhere' performer.

The Oakwell apprentice from Smithies started out in the Athersley South Junior School side as an inside-forward, but his representative games with the Barnsley Schools' team at Under 11, 12, 14 and 15 level were as an outside-left.

He was switched to centre-half when he played for Holgate School, had several matches at left-back for the Boys' Club — and turned out in midfield for Barnsley Park Avenue!

He is currently occupying the left-back position with the Oakwell Juniors, but has also played in midfield for them, and with equal success.

Says Paul: "I don't mind where I play just so long as I'm in the team. I'll play anywhere and enjoy it. I've always wanted to be a footballer and I'm just happy to get the chance."

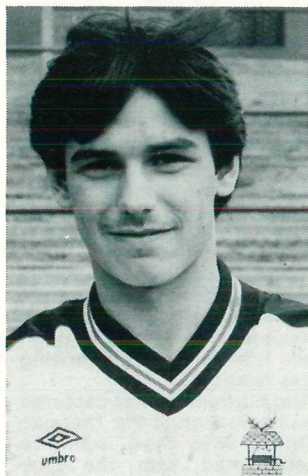

He must have thought that chance had gone when he was left out of the Barnsley Schools' Under 15 team after starting the season with them, but things came right again when he joined Barnsley Park Avenue.

In that team he linked up with Steve Agnew, Alan Semley, Craig Marshall and Simon Jeffels, who are all now his apprentice colleagues at Oakwell.

Paul also played cricket and rugby at school and he is interested in all sports, but football has always been his first love, and he has two older brothers, Kevin and Wayne, who both play local junior soccer.

No doubt they'll be cheering him on this afternoon when he hopes to take his place in the Barnsley team to meet Everton at Goodison Park in the fifth round of the F.A. Youth Cup.

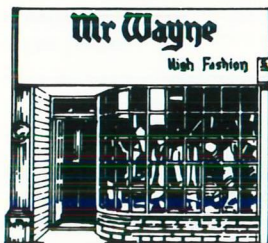

He said earlier this week: "I just can't wait for that one."

Since arriving at Ayresome Park in October, Malcolm Allison, the former Manchester City manager, has instilled new life into a club that was sliding rapidly towards the Third Division.

But the relegation fight is far from over. Boro' still have a lot of hard work ahead of them if they are to avoid the drop and Allison admits: "We are not completely organised yet, although things have gone quite well."

Allison is also trying to put the club in a more favourable light off the field by organising walkabouts in Middlesbrough town centre and improving Press relations.

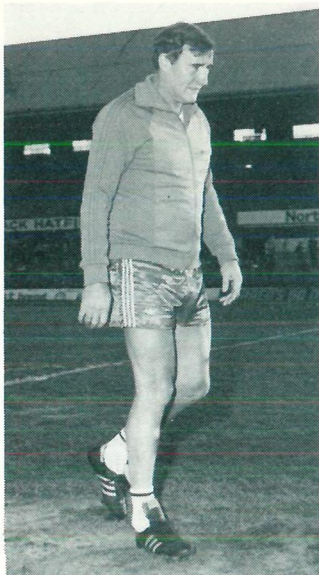

And his thinking has captured the imagination of the Teesside public, who had become disenchanted with the club following relegations and the sales of players like Craig Johnson and David Hodgson.

Yet Allison is well aware that the fans have suffered a great deal in the last two years and those who have returned could rapidly drift away again if he fails to provide them with a winning side.

And there is no money available to buy new players.

Says the flamboyant cigar-smoking, champagne-drinking extrovert: "I am not in a position to buy players, so I have got to work with those I have here at the moment."

But he talks enthusiastically about the young players he has inherited. He says: "Lads like Stephen Bell, Paul Ward and Darren Wood are very talented and I am excited at the prospect of trying to bring the best out of them."

"And I have other good players here who are willing to work very hard, and, above all, willing to listen."

Even so, Middlesbrough have failed to win any of their last seven matches, drawing four and losing three, and they remain desperately in need of points as they struggle in fourth from bottom position.

•The match against Middlesbrough at Oakwell on March 19 is the return of the fixture at Ayresome Park in November, when Billy Ronson was controversially sent off as the Reds went down to a 2-0 defeat.
